The actress Miranda Kaye is in the news again. It seems to me that everybody loves her. I have to say I don't see it. In my opinion, she's nothing special. For a start, she isn't a very good actress. Anyone who saw her latest film will agree with me. At one point in that film, another character asks Kaye's character, 'Why is all this happening?'. I think a lot of people in the cinema were probably asking themselves the same question. Next, to me, she isn't beautiful. I don't think she looks healthy because she is too thin. I admit she is attractive, but she's not my type. Finally, she is too political. Whenever I see her, she is promoting a charity, not a film. I think she should stay out of politics and work on her acting instead. I suppose she is a good person and a good mother and she cares about the environment, but I don't think she deserves all the praise. Am I the only one? What do you think?

2 Choose the correct option. Then match each opinion 1-3 with a supporting argument a-c.

- 1 She is / isn't a good actress.
- 2 She is / isn't beautiful.
- 3 She is too / should be more political.
- a She spends too much time promoting charities.
- b Her latest film wasn't very good.
- c She is too thin.
